WHAT THE SILVER MOVEMENT MEANS.

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

The silver lunacy seems to have become an infectious disease. It has seized and taken posession of men who should have been proof against such attacks, and although we cannot believe that any of the schemes to give full legal-tender power to silver have the slightest chance of being enacted into law, it would be idle to shut our eyes to the fact that the pernicious doctrines of the new school of advocates of bad money are making progress. The latest convert to them, or at least the last person of any consequence to make public profession of them, is Mr. Thurlow Weed, who has written a long letter to the New York Tribune in support of them. In the second sentence of his letter Mr. Weed admits that his knowledge of finance is "merely superficial," and, to speak the truth, he not only advances no new argument in favor of silver, but he says nothing in support of the claims of that metal which has not already been said with equal effect and equal pertinency in favor of paper money. We have found by long experience in the argument against bad money that it is useless at first to discuss the question philosophically, upon the facts and theories of economists. It is impossible to find points of agreement upon any principles as a basis of argument. But the argument to the pocket is a strong one with that class of economists who treat the chance to cheat somebody as the highest opportunity of a statesman, and we will therefore address a few observations to the pockets of these gentlemen.

There are two grievous errors into which all those who advocate the restoration of the silver dollar fall. Mr. Weed says in his letter: "I cannot, however, sympathize with those who are so fastidiously watchful of the interests of the bondholders. For I have failed to discover in that class of creditors, either at home or abroad, anything which entitles them to more consideration than the other and much larger classes who receive for their labor depreciated paper." Nor does anybody wish that the bondholders shall have more consideration than other classes. What is it that prevents the circulation of gold—not gold or silver, but gold—in this country? Is it not the existence of a cheaper currency,—greenbacks? And what does any hard-money man, the hardest, ask, but that the greenbacks, the depreciated paper which the other and much larger classes receive for their labor, shall be paid in gold? That is the whole matter in controversy between the "hards" and the "softs." We have been doing justice to the bondholders. They have long had their pay in gold. And now what we ask is, that the debt of the United States on which the unfortunate holders draw no interest, all of which is held in our own country by our own citizens, shall be treated as well as that on which we pay interest has been treated.

For—and we are here combating the second error—the scheme of the silver conspirators does not mean, and cannot mean the payment of the coin bonds of the U. S. in silver, but the substitution of silver for the greenback. The government has now a surplus of less than fifty million dollars a year, and it has a debt of over two thousand millions. The threat to pay in silver would cause them them to depreciate, but it would not increase our surplus, and we could not get enough silver in any year to pay off even fifty millions. The mints, run at their fullest capacity, would not coin enough silver in any year to pay one-fortieth of the interest charge. But when we agree to receive taxes and pay expenses in silver, we depreciate greenbacks to the level of silver, if not below it, and we make what silver is current the sole money of the country. The effect would, therefore, be simply to substitute silver for currency, and that means to give to the people less than the value of their present money. We should make ourselves the scorn of the world. We should find our bonds depreciating abroad, and coming in upon us by the cord. We should lose every dollar in gold that is in the country, for foreigners would sell their bonds for what gold they could get. All this we suppose the people intended when this strange madness was prepared for. Are they prepared to see all their money, that which they use, that with which they buy their dinners, suddenly depreciated ten per cent. with no power of recovery? We have not, with our paper currency, escaped the gold standard. We cannot escape it now. We should still sell our surplus products of gold values, and trade at home by a different standard. We should still have all the evils of a depreciated and fluctuating currency.

Let us leave the bondholders out of the question. Nobody proposes to pay them now, or ten years hence. The demand is for honest money for the people,—as good money as any nation has, money that does not fluctuate one, two or five per cent a day. Silver is not such money. The combined action of the world might possibly make it so; that is a matter for argument. We alone cannot make it so, with the rest of the world hard at work in the opposite direction. Unless we wish to have all the nations of Europe pouring their discarded silver upon us, unless we desire to denude this country of its last gold coin, unless we are determined deliberately to assume the evil which is at this moment costing India so much poverty and anxiety, we shall refuse to have anything to do with this latest and worst device to accomplish our financial ruin.

OUR NEW SENATOR.

[From the Farmington Chronicle.]

The appointment of ex-Speaker Blaine to a seat in the United States Senate, made vacant by the acceptance of the Treasury portfolio by the Hon. Lot M. Morrill, was a wise and judicious act on the part of Governor Connor, and one that will receive the unanimous approval of the party, not only in this State, but throughout the Nation. Although yet a young man, James G. Blaine has long been tried and not found wanting. He is assailed by his political opponents with a bitterness and malignity that has never before been experienced by any public man in our history, but his enemies are unable to destroy his brilliant reputation; and to-day, in spite of all that has been said, he is the foremost man in the hearts of the people in all the land. His masterly ability, great courage and courteous bearing has won the devotion of his friends and commanded the admiration of his enemies. One by one the charges that were so wantonly made against him have fallen to the earth, and as it has been, in that particular, we have no doubt will continue to the end.

In another column will be seen the affidavit of Caldwell, entirely vindicating Mr. Blaine from one of the most serious charges, and completely upsetting the pet theory of his defamers, and utterly crushing the hopes upon which they had confidently relied. Time is a great vindicator—the only thing requisite to the full and complete establishment of his innocence of every charge against his official integrity, and slander of those who would have gloried at his fall. He will enter upon his Senatorial career, young in years—compared with the exalted position—but ripe in experience and in the possession of talents that make him at once the acknowledged peer of any who may hold a seat in that august body. It is a source of congratulation and a matter over which we all should be proud, that we are able to send to the highest legislative body in the world one so gifted and thoroughly conversant with not only the theory, but the practical workings of our government. That he will have the undivided support of his party in the coming Legislature there cannot be a doubt, and should his health permit, that he will serve his State and country in the Senate, or in a more exalted position, for many years to come, is equally certain. God grant it, and to him speedy health and vigor, and may he live to fill the office he so justly won, and to preside over the Nation he has contributed so faithfully and unsparingly to make great.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The decided bolt of Indiana inflationists is very cruel on Mr. Hendricks, occurring in his own State. He was put on the ticket on purpose to secure the inflation vote, and failing in this his usefulness is at an end.

Ex-Secretary Bristow has agreed to speak in Vermont the last of August, when he is expected at Burlington.

Tilden's letter of acceptance: "I accept the nomination. The people wanted me, and so I engineered the Convention and got the nomination. The people know me, and it is therefore unnecessary for me to define my position. I am for reform as that word is defined by the Democratic party."

The progressive Democratic party has illustrated its views of economy by cutting down expenditures which cripple the mail service and inconvenience the public.—The mail between New York and Chicago will hereafter occupy 48 hours in transit, an enforced delay of 17 hours. Business men be sure and vote the Democratic ticket.

Gov. Kellogg reports that everything is harmonious in in the Republican ranks in Louisiana, and the party is entirely united, for the first time in eight years. If there is a fair election he considers the State sure for Hayes and Wheeler.

The latest recruits reported for Hayes and Wheeler are ex-Governor Curtin of Pennsylvania and Gen. Banks of Massachusetts. The Democrats accordingly entertain a very poor opinion of the abilities or influence of either gentlemen.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Brooklyn Argus (Ind. Dem.) says: "It is a pitiable sight to see a great national party consent to abandon its principles and nominate two men diametrically opposed to each other in order to procure a personal following in the different sections of the country, and then rely upon the easy virtue of one or the other of the candidates to compromise their principles. But such is the sad picture we have to contemplate."

Here is a specimen of the gunpowdery talk of the Southern Democratic press, which shows the extent to which the "victory" of the whites over the poor negroes of Hamburg has stirred up the old, bad passions. It is from the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist:

"The Doc Adams Company was an insolent and lawless mob, fatally bent on mischief. And Schiller was the fellow who got the ammunition. And the ammunition was to shoot white men with—and white women!—and! white children!—Whenever Radical authorities or Radical individuals give negroes guns and ammunition, white men are to be shot. And it is very well that we should watch—and sometimes turn the tables. Let us continue to watch."

Both sons of Stephen A. Douglas are working zealously for Hayes and Wheeler, in spite of Democratic claims that one of them had come out for Tilden.

When Mr. Tarbox came forward to speak in Tammany Hall on Tuesday night some one one shouted, "Pitch into Blaine," and we are told that Mr. Tarbox "smiled deprecatingly," but refrained from following his advice. Wise Mr. Tarbox. He tried that little experiment twice at Washington and came out of the encounter feeling like the man who wrestled with a threshing machine.

THE ABYSSINIAN WAR. The Alexandria correspondent of the London News learns from two American officers who served with the Egyptian forces sent against Abyssinia that the fighting was desperate on both sides. In the battle of last November the Egyptians were simply annihilated and mowed down by thousands; and in the series of battles at Adowa in March, although victory is claimed for the Egyptians, who inflicted terrible punishment on the Abyssinians, their own loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was very heavy. Both sides were equally glad to enter into negotiations for peace, and neither side seems to have been able to dictate terms. The Egyptians, therefore, cannot be considered victorious, and the object for which this lamentable war was undertaken has not been obtained.

The Tribune says: Secretary Robeson gets a vigorous defense at the hands of the Republican minority in the Naval Committee. They find that for some things he "deserves the thanks of the entire country," while in none has he been guilty "of any official misconduct or corruption, or any willful violation of law." The criticisms of the minority on the majority report seem just enough. In spots that nonpartisan document reads more like an article from a third-class Democratic newspaper than an official report to the House of Representatives. Whether the conclusions of the minority are also sound remains to be seen.

Ex-Clerk McPherson says he has detected the Democrats in an attempt to "doctor" the St. Louis platform. In preparing a copy for his manual he found two changes in what he called the official copy. In the sentence "We denounce the resumption clause of 1875, and we here demand its repeal," the word "date" has been substituted for "clause," thus materially modifying the plank, a change that will create a howl out in Indiana and Ohio. Another alteration is the entire omission of the Chinese plank which was put out as a bait for the California vote. The Democrats are tremendously sly. They seem to think the country is to be carried by trickery and sleight-of-hand, but they will find out that the man who starts out on the supposition that the average voter is a fool will discover his mistake before he has advanced very far.

The two parties go into the contest each with its old-time strength. The one party has the South, and the other has the North, East and West. They will each poll their respective votes, and no more. Neither can expect to steal many votes from the other. The battle will be a fierce one, but from the present outlook no one who analyzes the respective strength of the contestants can have any reasonable doubt of the result. The party that elected Lincoln will elect his successor, Hayes. The party that won the battle against Southern Democrats in the field, will surely win the battle from the same Southern Democrats at the polls. It is a pity that the country is divided on the only sectional line; but it is; and the great Republican North that secured victory in time of war will likewise secure victory in time of peace.—W. H. H. Murray's Golden Rule.

NEW MAGAZINES.

The August number of THE REPUBLIC magazine contains valuable material for the campaign. The opening article "The New Conspiracy" will prove invaluable to public speakers and others who are to take an active part in the canvass. It shows the character of the legislation proposed by Democracy and warns the nation of impending bankruptcy should Democracy obtain power. "The Republican Party, has it been Faithful to its Trust?" is another article which will have great weight wherever read. It is a review of the past fifteen years and shows the magnitude of the work done by the Republican party. The Theory of Secession; Our Public Schools; Tilden and Tweed; Democratic Slanders; and other valuable article, make the August number of this staunch periodical one of the best yet issued. Send $2 to Republic Publishing Co., Washington, D. C., and subscribe for one year.

COOKED CORNED BEEF

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been elicited to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a deleterious nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest qualities of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

The chair submitted a communition from the Secretary of War announcing that the State of Texas and International & Great Northern Railroad Co., offer to donate to the United States the site upon which Fort Elliott is located in the State of Texas. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; also a communication from the Attorney-General and Postmaster General in answer to the Senate resolution of the 24th inst., informing the Senate as to the number of employes in those departments, etc. Laid on the table.

Mr. Edmunds moved that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be until Monday next as a mark of respect to the memory of Senator Caperton, whose funeral occurs to-day. Agreed to.

Mr. Edmunds submitted an order in regard to the impeachment trial, providing that it be resumed Monday at noon. Agreed to.

Mr. Ingalls, from the Committee on Pensions, reported with amendments the House bill granting a pension to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Custer, widow of the late Brevet Major-General George A. Custer, and to Maria Custer and Emanuel H. Custer, mother and father of the deceased. Placed on the calendar.

The amendments reduce the pension to the widow of Gen. Custer from $50 to $30 per month and also strike out the name of the father of the deceased so as to grant pensions to his widow and mother only.

Mr. Boutwell, from the committee on commerce, reported with amendment the House bill to amend titles 48 and 52 of the revised statutes concerning commerce and navigation, and for the regulation of steam vessels (known as the steamboat bill.)—Placed on the calendar.

The bill from the committee on appropriations was reported favorably, making appropriations to defray the expense of the joint select committee to inquire into Chinese immigration and passed.

Mr. Wallace introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to use the surplus of moneys heretofore appropriated. Referred to committee on public buildings and grounds.

Mr. Frelinghuysen, from the committee on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, reported that the committee were unable to agree and moved that the Senate further insist upon the amendments and agree to further conference.

Mr. Hamlin said it seemed to him that he time had arrived when the Senate should adhere to its amendments. The bill came from the House and it was one of great injury to the commerce of the country. The consular part of the bill had been dealt with by men who knew nothing about it. They were like angels of destruction scattering death around them. There had been recklessness in the treatment of our consular affairs which challenged the attention of the Senate. Should this bill time after time go to a Conference committee, headed by two men who might be denominated Titus Oates and William Bedloe of to-day, he did not see why the Senate should not adhere to its amendments and let its enormity die the death of the righteous.

Mr. Edmunds thought the Senate should recede from all its amendments increasing appropriations and adhere in the strictest sense to its amendments to strike out of the House bill all provisions making a change of existing law. He would say to the House we will take what money you appropriate, but the Senate owes it to itself, to economy and retrenchment to adhere.

The River and Harbor appropriation bill was then taken up and recommitted with instructions to report the bill so that the total amount appropriated by it shall not exceed $5,000,000.

The amendments of the House to the bill providing for the completion of the Washington monument were agreed to and the bill passed.

Mr. Ingalls called up the House bill for the sale of the Osage Ceded lands in Kansas to actual settlers.

Mr. Logan moved to lay the bill aside and take up the House bill for the equalization of bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union. Rejected—yeas 20, nays 27.

The Senate then proceeded with the consideration of the bill in regard to the Osage Ceded lands, the pending question being on the motion of Mr. Edmunds to strike out the eighth section, which provides for the payment by the United States of the costs and necessary expenses incurred in prosecuting the two suits against the Leavenworth, Lawrence & Galveston Railroad Co. and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad Co., to test the validity of title to a portion of the land claimed by those companies.

Mr. Wrie submitted a substitute for the eighth section so as to provide only for the payment of fees of attorneys retained by settlers against the Pacific Railroad Co. Pending the discussion Mr. Allison, from the Conference Committee on the Military appropriation bill, made a report, and it was ordered printed, and laid over till Monday.

BLUFORD WILSON.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill in regard to the sale of the Osage Indian lands, and Mr. Allison's amendment was agreed to, as was also the substitute of Mr. Wright for the eighth section. The question recurred on the motion of Edmunds to strike out the eighth section of the bill as perfected by Wright and Allison and it was agreed to—yeas 26, nays 11.

Mr. Ingalls moved to amend so as to provide that the price of the land shall be $1.25 instead of $1.40. Agreed to. Pending the dis discussion of the bill the Senate at 5 o'clock adjourned until Monday.

House.

The House after the reading of the journal proceeded to the consideration of the Virginia contested election case, that of Platt against Goode.

The discussion of the Virginia contested election case was continued until two o'clock, when a resolution was reported by the minority of the committee, that Goode, the sitting member, was entitled to a seat. Adopted—yeas 105, nays 99.

A second vote as required by Parliamentary law on agreeing to the resolution as amended (that is by the substituting of the minority resolution for it) resulted, yeas, 105, nays 97. So Mr. Goode retains his seat as Representative from the 2d District of Virginia.

Mr. Abbott of Mass., who some time since was declared entitled to the seat held by Frost, came forward and was sworn in and took his seat.

On motion of Mr. Banning of Ohio, the bill to remove the charge of desertion from Nelson Tiffany of the 25th Massachusetts volunteers, was taken up and passed, notwithstanding the President's veto.

Mr. Deboll, of Mo., from the committee on civil service reform, made a report in regard to the charges against Mr. Purman declaring no bribes had been received by Purman for appointments made by him.—Ordered printed and recommitted.

Mr. Randall of Pa., from the committee of conference on the military academy bill submitted a report of the committee on said bill. He proceeded to explain the bill. The original estimate had been $437,476. The appropriation last year had been $364,740. The appropriation committee had this last year recommended $231,241. The bill as passed by the House appropriated $256,231 and by the Senate $308,841. As it came from the conference committee it appropriated $309,065. The report was then laid on the table and the House proceeded to consideration of the reports of the committee on naval affairs. After a speech by Lewis of Alabama in support of the majority report, the matter went over without action and the House adjourned.

THE WHISKEY TRIALS.

CONTINUATION OF WILSON'S STATEMENT.

Relations with the President.

Babcock's Indictment and Trial.

Mr. Wilson Again on the Stand.

WASHINGTON, July 28. Before the Committee on the whiskey trials to-day, the examination of Wilson was continued. He wished to make an addition to his testimony of yesterday in reference to the Barnard letter. Either in the body of the letter or in an accompanying document there was a statement from Emory S. Foster of St. Louis to the effect that the President was himself charged with being a party to defraud the Government of its revenue. I have no doubt that the President made his endorsement as much with reference to that fact and that allegation, as with reference to the allegation that Babcock was a party and that "Jim" Casey, the President's brother-in-law, was openly asserting that the Secretary of the Treasury would not hold his office 30 days.

By reference to a letter addressed to me by Gen. Bristow, under date of Aug. 7th written in the Treasury Department, I find that the Secretary of the Treasury had addressed no official communication to the President asking him for permission to publish that endorsement, and at that date (Aug. 7) he had received no response. For the purpose of fixing the date when the "Sylph" telegram was discovered. I refer to a letter of Gen. Bristow to me, written Aug. 9, 1875, and which I have no objection to make a part of the record.

The Secretary of the Treasury and myself having been ordered by the President to see that no guilty man should escape if it could be avoided, on consultation it was mutually concluded that the President could not go back on that injunction without stultifying himself and placing his officers in a false position, and we therefore resolved to leave the whole matter of Gen. Babcock's alleged connection with the whiskey ring at St. Louis to be dealt with by the local officers there.

Relations with the President.

Until about the first of December, and indeed, I may say, until it was known absolutely that Babcock had been indicted, the relations of Gen. Bristow and myself with the President were passable; but as soon as it was seen that Gen. Babcock was to be indicted, the idea of a military court of inquiry was brought to the front to my knowledge by Gen. Babcock and his friends.

How Wilson regarded the Proposed Court Martial.

The fact that the President of the United States took the ground that that military court should supercede the proceedings before the civil tribunals at St. Louis was taken by myself and by the Secretary to be a marked indication of his purpose to defeat the prosecution in that city.

About the Charge of Spying.

In the next place it is a fact, that I heard nothing from the President of the charge that I put spies upon him, or of the forged letter which was adduced against me, as stated in my testimony yesterday, until it was seen and known that Gen. Babcock was indicted.

The Removal of Henderson.

Gen. Henderson was dismissed in opposition to my written protest, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, in which I called the attention of the Secretary to the fact that I was advised officially by Eaton of the counsel for the government, that Judge Treat, the presiding Justice at the trial, in which the alleged objectionable remarks of Gen. Henderson were made, was said to have declared to Mr. Eaton, and to have requested Eaton to notify the authorities that in his judgment even Henderson's remarks contained no reflection whatever on the President; that Gen. Henderson went out of his way in an argument in that case, to state that in his judgment the President of the United States was altogether above reproach so far as he knew, and to pay the President a compliment. The dismissal of Gen. Henderson was in my judgment a fatal blow to the prospect of a successful prosecution in Gen. Babcock's case.

The Removal of Ward.

Another ground was the President's refusal to remove Jasper D. Ward, United States District Attorney at Chicago, until he was confronted by evidence on the 3d of December, which showed that Mr. Ward was a partner in the Powell distillery and had improper relations with Jacob Rehm, which statement was made to the President by Hon. Burton C. Cooke of Chicago, on the 15th of December. While in the city of St. Louis I wrote the President of the United States this letter:

My Dear President:

Pardon me for troubling you to read the enclosed clipping from yesterday morning's Chicago Tribune. I might under ordinary circumstances be quite willing that the matter rest where Mr. Ward's explanation leaves it and to permit that gentleman and Hon. C. B. Farwell to settle their own differences in their own way. In view of, however, many misstatements to myself that have reached you, and of the fact that I did not care to go into the matter with the reporter, I wish to say to you that the whole story of Mr. Farwell as it relates to me is utterly and unqualifiedly false. Even as a joke (a poor one at the best) it is wholly without foundation or warrant in any word or act of mine, in reference to any case either inside or outside the whiskey ring suits. If it comes in your way I will be obliged if you will show this to Mr. Farwell. If he has been to you with his complaint against me, I will take it as a favor if you will call his attention to my answer. The situation here and at Chicago seems to be satisfactory. I return to Washington to-night.

BLUFORD WILSON.

Why the letter was written.

I wrote that letter in reply to a charge which Farwell caused to be telegraphed to the Chicago Tribune that I had on the occasion of a certain visit to Chicago, said to J. D. Ward, while he was District Attorney, that he must indict Farwell and Logan, and when Mr. Ward asked me for evidence I said to him "Damn the evidence, indict them first and find the evidence afterwards." The Tribune article was submitted to Mr. Ward under Mr. Farwell's consideration, upon Mr. Farwell's statement that Ward would confirm it, and upon Mr. Ward's (confirming and corroborating, it should be published. Upon its being submitted to Mr. Ward, however, he repudiated it in toto and denied ever having had any conference or conversation with me upon which any such interpretation could be placed.

Abom Employing Bell.

In further response to the question of the committee said: the Secretary and myself were very early led to entertain grave apprehension as to what the issue would be in the Babcock matter. I learned from the President, from C. S. Bell and from the Attorney-General that it was in contemplation to employ Bell to go to St. Louis and report, not to Mr. Dyer, but directly to the Attorney-General, and that the reason for his retention was that the President understood that Dyer and Henderson intended to implicate him in the frauds if possible, when I learned that it was in contemplation to send this man Bell to St. Louis, I induced them to reconsider their proposed action, and he was not employed. It is a fact that the President was intensely earnest in the Babcock matter in opposition to the views of the Secretary and myself.

A Conference with the President.

On the 25th of December he sent for me and confronted me with the charge that it was reported to him that I was trying to have his brother Orville and his son Fred indicted for complicity in the frauds, and in the course of the conversation he again asserted to me his firm conviction in Babcock's innocence, and his sense of the great outrage that had been perpetrated on him by Henderson and Dyer in refusing to send to the military court at Chicago the original evidence contained in the records of the civil tribunal at St. Louis.

Col. Grant told the reporter of the New York Herald in December that Babcock's indictment was the result of a conspiracy between a prominent Treasury official, naming myself, and Carl Schurz. "This I state because the Reporter, Mr. Mecker, told me so the same evening, and because I brought the attention of the President himself to it, and on the second day of January the attention of Col. Frederick Grant.

Concluding Portion of Mr. Wilson's Statement.

Mr. Wilson in response to questions by Cochrane of the committee, said there had been differences between the President the Secretary and himself in relation to the California matter. There were reports from agents sent thither that some of the officials were inefficient, and these facts were made known to the President by Commissioner Pratt, Mr. Yaryan and Mr. Wilson. After this there was no further open rupture and renewal of war on Mr. Yaryan and himself.

I state frankly that the Secretary and myself had decided as early as June, or late in May, to resign just as soon as we could do so without having our motives questioned. It was thought best both by the President and Secretary that the resignation should not take place until after the Cincinnati Convention. I never received a reply to my letter of resignation from the President and do not know that it has been accepted, except in seeing the announcement of the name of my successor.

The conversation between the President and myself was brief; the President received me coldly. I said, I do this by the advice of friends, and also for the reason that I wish to put an end to the embarrassment and annoyances to which you are subjected on my account.

The President said very well. He expressed the hope that after the Cincinnati Convention we would have a season of quiet.

In reply to a question as to the names of the parties who had been operating against him, Wilson gave the names of Chas. Farwell, Senator Jno. A. Logan, Representatives Hurlbut and perhaps Sargent of California, together with a man named Wm. B. Moore and one Stewart, a dismissed Revenue agent.

I attributed the differences between the President and myself to the fact that he believed Babcock innocent and so believing he could not sympathize with the prosecuting officers, or with the Secretary and myself with the part we took with reference to Babcock's case.

Mr. Wilson was suffering from sickness and expressed anxiety to reach Cape May. In consideration of his health the Committee adjourned the examination till Tuesday next.

THE INDIAN WAR.

Various and Conflicting Reports.

NEW YORK, July 28. A Chicago special says: Advices at Sheridan's headquarters from General Crook, of the 23d inst., state that the Indians are all up in the mountains, and there is where all the fighting will have to be done. Crook says the Indians know every foot of these ranges, of which we are decidedly ignorant, and can guard every pass and ambuscade us at every step. Having plenty of dried meat, they can make a prolonged resistance and burn the forests about our ears, while keeping free from fire themselves. Their hunting parties keep out on buffalo ranges adding fresh meat to their stores every day.

The veteran officers say it would be wise to accept volunteer regiments, if only to relieve the 1st, 4th, 6th and 8th cavalry, which are lying on their oars around other territories, when they ought to be marched right here to crush the Sioux at one blow. A regular tidal wave of troops ought to be on the march now to support our approaching movement. It is hoped our impetuous Lieut. General will avoid the error committed by the Government during the first few days of the rebellion, the error of not sending enough men into the field to finish the war thoroughly and at once.

"I am astounded, says Terry to Crook, at the number and skill of the enemy. This command will fight to the last man, but officers and soldiers recognize the formidable character of the task before them and are radically down on all half way military experiments. If the lessons of the past month are not thrown away in high places, Custer will not have died in vain."

General Sheridan's views of the Situation.

General Sheridan looks upon the despatches received as "scarey" in one extreme, but says there is reason to believe there is an insecure feeling among the soldiers. He thinks the Indian war will be short, that it is not an incipient rebellion, that it will not require the marshalling of the hosts of the nation to drive the Indian from his wigwam, and he does not think it advisable to get frightened.

Sheridan's Despatch to Crook

Two men belonging to a schooner rendered valuable assistance in pulling the unfortunate old woman out. She must have been in the water all the way from five to fifteen

THE MADE BELLE.

It was a sultry day in the late July. The ocean-breeze failed to dispel the fever of the air that waited impatiently for the fulfillment of the promise, that lay broadly leigable along the eastern horizon, of a coming thunder-storm.

The sultriness and impatience that prevaded the atmosphere, thirsting for the excitement of electrical volleys and a dash of impetuous rain, also pervaded the mental atmosphere of a group of idle young men who lounged upon the shady corner of a hotel piazza killing time until the dinner hour.

"Celia Carr was the belle last year," said Ned Grosvenor, "and we shall not look upon her like again."

"The array of beauty at present is not alarming" observed Sam Dent. "The Brewsters are nice girls; Miss Fanning may be called quite stylish. Miss Hayward decidedly so; Jennie Hammond will be a capital creature, but she is rather 'bread-and-butterish' yet; her sister is a schooled coquette. Adele Ferris is the belle so far."

"I never pay court to beauties," said Armand Du Bois. "When a girl expects every man who beholds her to be at her feet as a matter of course, I prefer to pique her, for some time at least, with indifference."

"There have been several arrivals today," said Grosvenor, "Miss Monroe among the number. Look out for Miss Monroe, Du Bois. She isn't a beauty exactly, but—"

"Let us make a belle," suggested Arthur Lindsley. "Let us take some moderate girl and idolize her, one and all of us. Not ridiculously, but just enough to turn her head and have all the other dear creatures dying of jealousy."

"What will you make her of?" asked Sam. Where's your material? Produce your bellmetal, Lindsley."

"She must be a novice," said Grosvenor.

"And susceptible," Sam.

"But not too susceptible, so there'll be no fun in it." said Dick Wilhurst.

"She must not be a beauty," said Du Bois.

"Nor a stupid," said Lindsley.

Wanted—a belle. So stood their agreement, when all minor institutions received an obligatory knell from

"That tocsin of the soul, the dinner bell."

Two days later a party arrived at the hotel, who were registered as "Mr. Wolf, Mrs. Wolf, and Miss Wolf, of C——," and on the same afternoon Lindsley announced triumphantly, "I've found the girl. No; don't ask me what she's like. Nothing startling, I promise you. Just a passable sort of a rather lady-like nobody. The raw material, that's all; and that's what we want. A mighty pretty little foot she had, though peeping from under her water-proof cloak. But plain unmistakably plain and unpretending, I assure you. Just the nondescript thing we require for our made belle."

A more inviting evening drawing-room no summer hotel could boast. Given the lights and the music, and what volatile creatures could desire a better field for the dance? Easily disencumbered too, and convertable for private theatricals tableaux and grimes, its entertainments were famed. An occasional dull day could be endured in anticapation of the unfailing bewitching quality of its "falling grace."

In this inviting drawing-room Miss Irene Wolf made her debut, clinging rather closely to the side of her mother until the music struck up. The dance began. The young and shy stranger found herself introduced to a number of agreeable young men. Every one seemed pleased with her. Every thing she said every thing she did, proved to be just the happy word of the moment or the happy act. "It has been such a delightful evening," she said to her mother, when, after midnight she lingered to talk over the novel event. "I was a silly girl I was to dread the beginning so much. How kind every one is!"

Happily she was not mediumistic, to know the comments made upon her by her gentle sisterhood of the house. She came in mention quite disparagingly in contrast to Miss Monroe, likewise a debutante of the evening—a young lady just returned from a tour in Europe, who had brought the "loveliest costumes" from Pingat's and Worth's; in one of which, purple and pale blue, with rococo jewels and a wonderful fringe, she had appeared that night.

"Wasn't it amiable," said Miss Fanning, "in Ned Grosvenor and the other fellows of our set to take up that bewildered little Backwoods? Poor thing! I hope they will not drop her flat all at once,"

Drop her? This was the last thought likely to occur to the kind young men; they had no such intent. On the contary they congratulated themselves upon the fact that Irene Wolf was not only just the thing they wanted for their made belle, but a nice sort of a girl, and a good dancer thrown in.

As time rolled on, sisterly solicitudes for the ultimate fate of the "Backwoods" became extinct. Propitious circumstances elevated the "poor thing" to "that Miss Wolf." Favorite partner of the dance, abettor of games, recipient of the prettiest bonbonnieres and the loveliest flowers, the first-thought-of invitation for the ride, drive or walk, the queen of the picnic, and the belle of the ball. "I asked Sam Dent," said the beautiful Miss Ferris, "what was the charm of that Miss Wolf. He said it was simply the 'je ne sais quoi' which always attrcts men, but that women invariably fail to perceive."

"I always knew," pondered the devout heart of Mamma Wolf, who, with her beast-of-pray cognomen, reflected upon the vexed question of "what's in a name" the most lambent possible light—"I always knew that our Irene had the disposition of an angel: but I never realized before that my child was the raving beauty I find she is."

As the season advanced the triumphs of the made belle lost none of their brilliancy. Her success began to reflect credit upon her makers. Every day she seemed more lovely, every day more worthy of preference. For is there a cosmetic like praise? It there a tonic like smiles?

Irene Wolf in her midsummer experience, through that watering-place life was an episode of paradise. But the serpent always crawls into Eden. And in Irene's paradise the intruder had, as in Raphael's picture, a woman's face.

Miss Hammond thought it her duty to confide to Miss Wolf a secret that had been intrusted by Dick Wilhurst as something he considered "too good to keep." Imagine the delicacy of the self-imposed act; for the secret was no other than the fact that the belle of the season was the creature of a joke, the envied idol of the summer literally nothing more than "a block of wood or stone," at whose efficiency the priests of its worship mocked.

Miss Hammond performed her self-imposed duty without trepidation. If in the rivalry of the season she had allowed herself to feel bitterness, and if malace lay in her motive, she was not rewarded by the effect upon her victim of her astounding revelation. In listening to the humiliating tale, given in strict confidence and without suppression of any stinging detail, Irene remained calm, offering no interruption or exclamation. Her heart, indeed, beat violently, her color went and came. When the whole story was told she pondered a minute, and said,

"Do you believe this, Miss Hammond? I hardly can. I think these gentlemen—these friends of yours—are too well-bred to have placed a girl, an unoffending stranger, in such an ignominious position. No! Do not trouble yourself about this story. I feel sure these young men have better hearts."

But, oh, the storm that swept over that bared bit of palpitating mechanism, the woman's heart, in the darkness of the night! The pain, the tantalizing torment, the bewilderin doubt. Could it be true! Let the careful memory, the calm judgment, take up the facts. Alas, the story was not without its corroborating proofs!

The first night of anguish that swept across the pillow of a young girl robs it forever of all the white roses of which girl's pillows are made. Thenceforth the softest is but ruffled linen on which the head rests.

In the morning Irene awoke—for at dawn she caught one miserable half hour's sleep—awoke for the first morning of her life, upon a flat, stale, unprofitable world.

What pleasure was there to w*ade belle* in fixing her blonde hair at the glass?

The first thought of the sinful had been this: "Oh, how I wish I could tell mother!" but she reasoned with herself, "No; it is better I should bear it by myself. And father, dear father, how he would resent this cruelty! how much he loves his poor little girl! He must never, never, never know."

The evening after Miss Hammond's confi ent Irene was beautiful for the first time perhaps the last time in her life. She exert [illegible] to the utmost to regain [illegible] whose confidence she had betrayed. [illegible] Dent, Dick Wilhurst, and [illegible] the [illegible] of their friendship [illegible]

THE LOST ART" RECOVERED.

Galen, the most celebrated physician, flourished in the second century. His theory was that roots and herbs, properly compounded, are Nature's remedy. His cures were so marvellous that he was accused of magic. His mighty skill and success silenced his enemies and his opinions held sway in the civilized world for centuries, until the art of compounding vegetable remedies was gradually lost in the thickening gloom of the middle ages, and poisonous mineral mixtures took its place. But the clouds are breaking in our day, and the almost magical virtues of VEGETINE, fully attested by thousands, stamp it as a true Galenical compound, and as a blood-purifier and health-restorer probably has had no equal since the days of Galen himself.

SCROFULOUS HUMOR

A Hopeless Sufferer Cured by Vegetine.

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir—Thinking that a statement of my case may meet the eye of some one suffering from Scrofula, I beg you to publish the following, which I cheerfully furnish of my own free will.

I have been afflicted with a scrofulous Humor from my birth, and at times very badly. When about six years old the disease made its appearance on my head, and it was deemed advisable to have the hair shaved, but they were unable to cut it off with embroidery scissors, as my head was so sore I could not have it shaved. After we had succeeded in healing the sores on the outside they broke, but on the inside, causing much pain. They have been times when the surface of my hands was all raw from the effect of this humor, and no pen can describe the great suffering I have endured.

About three years ago small kernels made their appearance on the cords of my neck, several of which grew into quite large tumors, and nothing which we could use would remove them. The whole system was so full of scrofulous humor that it seemed ready to burst through the skin at all parts of my body, and I was a living mass of sore and feeble condition. The tumors on my neck had grown to such a size as to disfigure me badly. When in this hopeless condition I was advised by a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I at once commenced taking it, and after I had used it a short time the tumors commenced discharging, and I do not think I overestimate the quantity from each tumor when I say that a good-sized teaspoonful of corruption ran out, after which they commenced to heal up and disappear, and now my neck is as smooth and free from humor as a baby's.

I believe the VEGETINE has entirely cleansed every taint of scrofula from my system, and I delight to have this statement published, so that other sufferers may find relief, as they surely will do, if they try the VEGETINE.

It will afford me pleasure to give any further information relative to my case to all who will call or address me.

ALICE REILLEY.

UNSOLICITED EVIDENCE.

SPENCERPORT, N.Y., May 14, 1875.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—Mrs. Reilley has been one of health for about two years. About a year ago she had a tumor come on her side which was very painful.

I saw Vegetine advertised in the Farmer, and sent to Bangor and got two bottles. She is now taking the third bottle; her health is much improved, and the tumor is going away as fast as it came. Every one in this vicinity knows what Vegetine has done for my daughter, and I take every opportunity to recommend it to those who are not aware of its great value. Very respectfully,

MRS. SUSAN C. RANDALL.

Every One Speaks Favorably.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 21, 1870.

MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I was troubled with Canker from childhood, causing my mouth to be so sore at times that I was unable to eat. Have taken three bottles of your Vegetine, and like it. I tried your Vegetine. After taking it a short time I found it relieved the intolerable sore at once, and after taking two bottles the cancer was entirely healed, and has not troubled me since. Have not been troubled with Canker since. Have also been troubled with Rheumatism, and your Vegetine has entirely cured me. Have recommended it to many, and every one speaks highly of it. Yours truly,

P. S. S. BLAKE.

VEGETINE extracts the humor from the blood, and leaves the blood pure, healthy and strong. It is the only reliable blood purifier before the public. It is perfectly safe, and can do no harm. It is sold by all druggists.

in the county of Penobscot, deceased, by giving bond as the law directs. He therefore requests all persons who are indebted to the estate of said deceased to make immediate payment, and those who have any demands thereon, to present the same for settlement to him.

HANNON W. LEONARD, Executor.

Bangor, April 25, 1876. 25

To the Honorable the Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

Sylvester C. Gatchell, of Plymouth, in the County of Penobscot, Administrator of the estate of George W. Getchell, late of said Plymouth, deceased, respectfully represents that the amount due from the estate of said deceased for the payment of debts and expenses of administration, as near as can be ascertained, is sixteen hundred and fifty dollars; that the value of the personal estate of said deceased available to pay the same does not exceed eleven hundred dollars, and insufficient to pay the same by the sum of five hundred and fifty dollars, and that a sale of some portion of the real estate of said deceased is necessary for the payment of said debt&c&c.

Wherefore your petitioner prays, inasmuch as by a partial sale of any entire portion of said real estate the residue would be greatly depreciated in value, that he may be licensed to sell for the payment of debts and expenses of administration, at private sale, the whole of the homestead farm of the said deceased, situate in said Plymouth.

Dated this 30th day of May, A. D. 1876.

SYLVESTER C. GATCHELL.

STATE OF MAINE.

PENOBSCOT, ss. Court of Probate, May Term, A. D. 1876.

Upon the foregoing petition, ORDERED, That said petitioner give public notice to all persons interested, by causing a copy of the petition and this order thereon, to be published three weeks successively in the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier, a newspaper published in Bangor, in said County, that they may appear at a Court of Probate for said County, to be held at the Probate Office in said Bangor, on the last Tuesday in June next, at ten of the clock in the forenoon, and show cause, if any they have, why the same should not be proved, approved and allowed as the Last Will and Testament of said deceased.
